OUR SHOPS ARE OPENING - AT A DISTANCE

We are very lucky to have a diverse mix of shops and businesses within Westcombe Park. Some come and others go but our basic needs continue to be happily met. Over the years we have gained some attractive new shops but there have been many challenges to local high streets.

Our loyalty to our local high streets has ensured that we continue to be well served. However this pandemic has been the most challenging yet one that has been in the main outside our control. As we have been urged to shop local, keep our journeys short and avoid public transport we are very lucky to have local options in our essential traders.

But high streets have been very quiet, as weekly big shops for essential goods were encouraged. On-line deliveries also an option, if you could get a delivery slot!

However, we now need to help our local economy recover from what, for some, has been a very bleak and uncertain time. But we have to do this safely.

As lockdown is changing and social distancing is being relaxed we are pleased to see more shops at the Standard and surrounding areas have been able to re-open.

These non-essential shops and businesses, even after some rent free months and on-line activity, really need your custom to help them ensure their continuing viability.

But life will be a little different…The council has provided floor stickers to demonstrate the social distancing requirement in the shops and window stickers to press the point. Some businesses have commented that the stickers should have been provided a little earlier when essential shops were allowed to open! However the council is currently nothing planned to ensure that the same is adhered to outside their premises.

The Westcombe Society have pressed the council to tell us what measures they are putting in place locally to achieve the London Mayor’s Streetspace initiative (see June issue). This includes the social distancing requirements for pedestrains but so little detail has been made available.

However work has been carried out at end of Invicta road to help with the social distancing of pupils and to discourage the use of vehicles at designated drop-off times and again at designated pick-up times.

Whilst we would encourage you to support our local shops we urge everyone to follow current guidelines both inside and outside the shops, when queueing. The wearing of a face mask is encouraged and do remember to wash your hands both before and after leaving home.

If you feel that recommendations are not being followed or you feel unsafe please come back at a quieter time to protect yourself, but also advise the council at Danny.doerje@royalgreenwich.co.uk who may then consider other distancing measures that could be put in place in our locality. A NEW FLOOR REVEALS HISTORY

During the Covid 19 lockdown, Mycenae House staff discovered that the main hall floor was no longer safe to use and sadly needed to be replaced immediately.

In removing the old floor, the workmen found a copy of the Mercury newspaper from the 20th September 1933 and also a small paper bag from a bakers shop of the same age on Westcombe Hill. Both these items are now being conserved for future reference. (Incidentally houses in the Westcombe Park area were being advertised for sale at £590 each).

GREENWICH PARK

Good news! The Avenue toilets were opened today with a steward to help maintain social distancing, as per the Government’s guidelines. Depending on how this is received The Royal Parks will then look at the option of opening the Rockefeller Toilets in a few weeks.

SILVERTOWN UPDATE

Warm thanks to those of you who had volunteered to help folk who have needed, property, prescriptions or just a chat.

As needs are very much reduced, we are closing the group, although calls will still be forwarded.

Thank you all once again for being part of the 3800 strong team. Your willingness to help has been very much appreciated.

LETTER FROM THE EDITOR

Hello Readers,

This joint one to cover the July/August months because, in the past, these months were traditionally holiday months! Aeroplanes filled our skies and the pandemic may be choosing to stay away. Now, instead, we are grounded as the UK eases itself out of lockdown. We spend billions on our health care and the guarantee laws/logistics of leaving and arriving as well as doing our personal risk assessment.

Are we healthy enough to be in that close quarters with others, on a two, three, five or more hour flight? Will mask wearing be enough to protect us on a coach journey? Or should we wear a hazmat suit like Naomi Campbell, which she swears by as her go-to travel attire. Will Europe let us in and out again if we drive to a holiday there? Perhaps a camping holiday in the UK is the safest option this year or one of two of our personal bubble-busties? For the very cautious amongst us though, I’m afraid it’s going to be yet more staycation.

We have been helping people to get back to their workplaces and supporting those more vulnerable, offering support and comfort to all those in need.

We have been helping people to get back to their workplace and supporting them through the transition period.

Our team of volunteers have been fantastic in their dedication, we couldn’t have done it without them.

"We plan to have a big celebration event to thank them all in December, if we are allowed to!" - Polly Morgan

AGE EXCHANGE, A BLACKHEATH DELIVERER

People with dementia are especially vulnerable during this lockdown, with routines crucial for their wellbeing. Some regular users struggle to understand why they can’t leave their homes, or why their families aren’t visiting, which inevitably upsets both the user and the volunteers.

So when Age Exchange had to close its doors on March 17th the charity was faced with difficult decisions of how to keep their users entertained and stimulated, their cars, from behind closed doors.

Within four days two solutions were agreed upon. The first entailed the making and filling of ‘creative boxes’ designed to keep their users entertained and stimulated in their own homes. The second was to start a befriending phone scheme.

Volunteers have been delivering these boxes to over 100 households. A DVD for seated movement and another ‘Singing for the lungs’ has also been delivered.

Age Exchange is hosting a virtual balloon race to raise money – see the EcoRacing website for more details. To donate directly, visit the Age Exchange website.

COMMITTEE AWARD ACHIEVEMENTS

Greetings from the Westcombe News July/August 2020

OBITUARIES

Maggie Knight who was a Life member of the Westcombe Society sadly passed away last month. She was 99 years old.

She had lived on Westcombe Hill since 1952 when she and new husband Ted moved into a newly-built house on Westcombe Hill following bomb damage. Both were heavily involved in the voluntary sector for over 65 years. Maggie received long service medals for her work with the Red Cross of which she and her family were very proud.

Maggie volunteered for many years at QEH Woolwich and was on the Management Committee of Greenwich Housing Society.

Maggie was independent, strong, chatty, with a lovely sense of humour. Principled and passionate about the local area and community. She had a good life until she needed assistance as dementia was disrupting her day-to-day living. Her ashes will be scattered at Eltham Crematorium when restrictions allow. Donations in her memory may be made to Greenwich Red Cross or Bexley Hospice.

Sydney Leslie James Hulls, aged 96 of Blackheath, sadly died on 21st May 2020 after a short illness. Beloved husband of Brenda who passed away in 1976, brother to Anthony Hulls and uncle to Linda, Jacqueline, Steven and Stuart. And a dear friend of St John’s Church. A memorial service will be held at a later date.

Rev Dr Eddie Scrase-Field, Vicar of St John’s, Blackheath.

Views expressed are not necessarily those of either the Westcombe Society, or the Westcombe News.
A COVID-19 ravages the economies of the world, one of the big concerns is youth unemployment. A report from the Resolution Foundation think-tank indicates that youth unemployment in Britain will reach the one million mark over the coming year unless the government takes action. Otherwise, an extra 600,000 young people under the age of 25 will join the dole queue.

The ‘corona class of 2020’ – the 800,000 school leavers and graduates about to join the labour market is the most exposed age group to the probable unemployment.

It is estimated that in the EU, about 70% of the current cohort are in danger of being unemployed, hopefully gradually diminishing from year to year. There is no reason to suppose that the situation in the UK will be any better. According to an OECD report, young people in the UK spend on average almost two and a half years out of work, longer than in many of other countries.

In 2014 all EU countries except the UK signed up to the European Youth Guarantee – a commitment to ensure that all young people under the age of 25 receive opportunities to secure their future. This meant a promise that within a period of four months of becoming unemployed or leaving formal education, anyone under the age of 25 could be offered a job, continued education, an apprenticeship or a traineeship.

In the EU, there is a proposal to allocate some 50 billion Euros to support the European Youth Guarantee. It would be good to think that the present UK government is laying down similar plans. Our young people deserve nothing less.

GREENWICH UNIVERSITY INVOLVED IN NEW RESEARCH ON FACE MASKS

A t the onset of the pandemic, scientific evidence on the effectiveness of face masks in slowing transmission of respiratory diseases was limited, and there was no data on COVID-19 since it was a previously unknown disease.

But, prompted by some new research in recent weeks, the World Health Organization said on Friday it now recommends that everyone wear fabric face masks in public to try to reduce disease spread.

This research, led by scientists at the Britain’s Cambridge and Greenwich Universities, suggests lockdowns alone will not stop the resurgence of the new SARS-CoV-2 coronavirus, but that even homemade masks can dramatically reduce transmission if enough people wear them in public.

“Our analyses support the immediate and universal adoption of face masks by the public,” said Richard Stutt, who co-led the study at Cambridge.

The study found that if people wear masks whenever they are in public it is twice as effective at reducing the R value than if masks are only worn after symptoms.

In all scenarios the study looked at, routine face mask use by 50% or more of the population reduced COVID-19 spread to an R of less than 1.0, flattening future disease waves and allowing for less stringent lockdowns.

Experts not directly involved in the latest British study were divided over its conclusions.

HELPING YOU PLAN YOUR FUTURE

It is an uncomfortable truth that our borough, with its rich Maritime history, has ties to the slave trade. We will be reviewing the whole of our public realm to identify these links and develop a way forward.

“Our history is important, and we are not looking to rewrite or forget the past. But we do have a responsibility to question and discuss the place of commemorative structures from bygone eras in our borough’s future.”

A local charity, begun in the late 1600s is alive and active in 2020 offering grants to help ease COVID-19 hardship. Greenwich Hatcliffe was founded by one William Hatcliffe, and in the 1980s the Misses Smith added their own bequest to the charity. Their money was used to build homes and shops in East Greenwich, and the proceeds of renting these premises is used, to this day, to support mature and elderly people in Greenwich and Westcombe Park.

Says Kathryn Taylor, Administrator of Greenwich Hatcliffe: “These are trying times, especially for the vulnerable in our community, and we at the Greenwich Hatcliffe want to help.

So, if you’re a local resident over 55 this enduring charity can perhaps help ease difficulties you may be facing due to lockdown and self isolation. ‘It is our mission to help older residents in the Greenwich borough stay living safely and comfortably in their homes for as long as possible.”

Small grants of up to £500 are available from Greenwich Hatcliffe for things like laptop or tablet/ips etc. and contributing to the set cost of installing internet access. “Many vulnerable people are looking to shop online but lack an easy way to do so.”

Katrina points out.

And of course a computer can ease loneliness, keeping isolated residents in touch with their families and friends.

Applicants for a grant are expected to contribute at least 10 percent of the costs. Greenwich Hatcliffe will also contribute (up to their limit per applicant) to more expensive items like laptops.

SUCCESS FOR JOHN ROAN’S 120 CHALLENGE

John Roan School reached 100% of its target, raising £14,400 for the school and local community.

With match offers from United Learning and The John Roan Foundation, this now equates to £28,800 to bridge the digital divide.

John Roan has 250 laptops, of which 110 have now been set up and given out to students in need as identified by the heads of year.

A Year 8 recipient of a school laptop shared her take on the difference it had made: “It was really difficult for me to complete the work set by teachers before because my computer was very slow and the PowerPoints didn’t open on it which was stressful. Now I can complete and submit all of my work. Having a school laptop made it much easier for me and makes it more fun to do my work, and it gives me much more motivation.

Thank you.

The School thanks everyone who helped, either through fundraising, donating, or offering verbal support!

DRIVE-IN CINEMA ON THE HEATH 6TH-12TH JULY

The Blackheath Joint Working Party (BJWP) have received an application for a Drive-In Cinema to be held on the heath this summer.

The company specialises in 80’s classic and 2010 blockbuster films shown in ‘true 50s fashion’. Permission has not yet been granted but the proposal is for the screenings to be held from 6th - 12 July at a cost of £35 per car. Viewers would stay in their cars facing the screen and the sound would be transmitted via the car radio.

For more information check the website www.mainstagefestivals.com, or contact Alan Crofton 07961 246 844 or alan@mainstagefestivals.com

Hopefully by the time WN has been delivered, we will have a cinema date for the Heath. Wonder what will be showing... Grease... a really good horror movie? See you there! -Ed

The number of takeaway food outlets has risen in recent years and Heart Research UK suggests (politely) that this may have contributed to the rise in rates of obesity in the UK.

Takeaway food is often cheap, convenient and tasty, but it also tends to be high in fat, salt and sugar.

Regularly consuming takeaways can have a negative impact on your heart health as well as your waistline. Heart Research UK have some tips to guide you on maintaining healthier takeaway meals.

- Choose a food outlet that has healthy options on the menu
- Choose wisely from the menu
- Keep an eye on portion size
- Make your own ‘Fakeaway’ at home
- Think about what you drink

Keeping our hearts healthy is going to require a few culinary sacrifices. Perhaps we can reduce our take-outs to once or twice a week, using them as treats rather than everyday meals perhaps?

GET WISE TO SCAMMERS’S TRICKS

Since lockdown began many of us are checking more technology at home and in new ways. Which can make us vulnerable to being scammed as, sadly, gangs who make money from online scams are still at work. Scams and malware can enter via numerous paths; email, websites, social networking, phone calls, social media and more – the rules below should help you to avoid some of the most common ones.

Passwords
Make them strong, 12+ characters including numbers and characters like @, #, $, !, passphrases may be easier to remember.
Use different passwords for different services, with services like LastPass one master password can help.

Read the language – ask yourself whether your bank, friend etc would write like that.
Check the sender’s address – an email might display the name of a friend, but the email address may be completely different.

Check where the link goes before clicking – if you hover over a link you should be able to see where it goes, scams might contain links like “Barclaysrefund.wxyz.com” - Barclays in the name it doesn’t mean it’s Barclays. Just like attachments - if you’re not sure, don’t click.

Enable spam filters and two-factor authentication on your email service if possible. Gmail and Hotmail provide this.

If you are unsure – call someone. If it’s your bank, find their number on your card and call them. If it’s a friend, call them on a number you already have.
Don’t be embarrassed to ask – even if you think you’ve been duped - scammers are very good at what they do, everyone is still a target and quick action is important.

If you receive a suspicious call then use a mobile phone to check, a scammer calling you on a landline can still be there after you hang up.

Make sure you have a good backup, good security software - and keep software updated.

Online shopping – look for independent, detailed, reviews of the site, remember some people get paid to write fake reviews. Credit cards and payment systems like Google Pay usually offer more protection than debit cards.

Social networking – exercise caution even if something appears to be from a friend.

If something seems too good to be true – it probably is.

The above list has been provided by Headstart IT. It is not exhaustive so, if you are unsure of something you are seeing on one of your devices, call them on 020 8858 2002 they will be able to help you. If you’d like to start keeping up with recent technology there are regular news articles at www.headstart.it and there are lots more great online resources like https://staysafeonline.org/.

A TEACHER WHO IS MAKING MATHS FUN

A South London primary school teacher has spent time in lockdown hand making maths games to send to pupils in the post.

Roy Clutterbuck makes educational games to show his pupils that maths can be playful and enjoyable.
He ran a successful crowdfunding campaign to get his ‘Lampogo 3’ game manufactured so that more children can benefit from it. They managed to hit their crowdfunding goal of £3,500 and are already working to raise their stretch goal of £4,000 which means that he is going to give away ten extra games to schools.

So far during the lockdown he has sent 61 games out to pupils, from Years 3 to 5, with many going to the homes of the most disadvantaged pupils.

Even though there are plenty of resources online to help children continue learning whilst at home, many youngsters require a screen. Lampogo 3 is designed for many players and will help families to start discussions about maths.

The game, Lampogo 3, should be available to buy for the general public by September. To find out more information, please visit: https://lightningmaths.co.uk/

Roy set up Lighting Maths as a social enterprise in order to share his games and change attitudes towards maths. Lighting Maths has received support from the School for Social Entrepreneurs and Roy has won a Let Teachers Shine award from the educational charity SHINE.

The game, Lampogo 3, is “an antidote to boring maths worksheets,” Roy says. “There is no pencil, no writing, and - once the rules are learned - there are no words to read. Instead there are visual puzzles, tactile counters, opportunities for rich mathematical conversations, “and most importantly, there is laughter,” says Roy.

“Many pupils are scared of writing the wrong answer,” he explains. “The counters give pupils confidence; it helps them with the process of trial and improvement. You end up moving the counters as part of your thinking, testing out ideas as you go.”

In their feedback, pupils said that the level of challenge was one of the things they enjoyed the most. “It’s the challenge of the puzzle that gives satisfaction when you solve it,” claims Roy.

Lampogo 3 is a game “a bit like a cross between sudoko and snap” Roy explains, it

THE RETURN OF THE CAFE IN THE PLEASANCE

Lizzie says her cafe will re-open soon. Hopefully people in Westcombe Park know Lizzie’s cafe. It doesn’t qualify for post-lockdown cash and so she needs our support to make up for that.

Lizzie’s cafe is in East Greenwich Pleasance. This was the old Royal Hospital burial ground which was handed over to the Council in 1926. It has specimen trees and a memorial to dead seafarers – there is an annual parade of old sailors with flags and bugles. It wasn’t until 2008 that the Council was able to make an entrance into the park from the top of Halstow Road – so people from Westcombe Park have easy access.

The new gate made the cafe a possibility and Lizzie has run it since 2009. Since then a lot has happened. The Bridge is a lively centre run by locals which provides for mothers with young children with lots of extra events and ideas. There are all sorts of events through the year and in all of this Lizzie has been a focus and an anchor. With the cafe in the park it feels safe there, vandalism is kept down, there are clean toilets.

So – please support her now over these bad times so we can keep the cafe going and this beautiful little park can flourish again.

Mary Mills.

THINGS TO DO

“URBAN MINISTRY IN CHICAGO: LIBERTY, FAMILY, THE LOCK ON THE WEST SIDE”

Our Community Lecture Series concludes with an illustrated talk by our local vicar: Rev. Tim was a trade union organiser, attorney, priest and social justice activist in the USA before coming to St George’s in 2014. He was based in Chicago from 1991 to 2014, and spent the last two and a half years there as the Priest-in-Charge of St Andrew’s Episcopal (Anglican) Church on the Near West Side of Chicago. St Andrew’s is a Black majority church of the Anglo-Catholic tradition known for its activism in one of Chicago’s most economically deprived neighbourhoods. Tim will talk about the history of the West Side - a place where immigrants came from around the world to work in America’s growing industries, the birthplace of May Day (International Labour Day) and the early trade union movement, and now one of the largest African-American communities in the USA.

He will discuss the realities of life in that hard-hit neighbourhood, and highlight the role of the Church in the struggle to save the public (state), schools, for housing and job opportunities and against gun violence in Chicago.

This talk is made available more timely as we consider how to overcome racism and inequality today in the UK. A Q&A session will follow.

CREATIVE DANCE CLASSES – WITH NO AGE LIMIT!

Joanna Clare is a self-employed dance teacher living in Eltham, and since the lockdown has shifted all her creative dance classes onto video conferencing facility. Zoom. Joanna’s classes are inclusive, with students ranging from the age of three to 93!

Gentle Fitness class for 50s plus: Joanna set this class up at the beginning of lockdown, which has proved successful. People also enjoy the after class chat sessions, a way of socialising during lockdown. She is now offering 1:1 gentle fitness sessions as well as the group class.

Creative Ballet for children and Ballet for adults: Both classes she usually leads in church halls in Eltham and Blackheath. Students are surprised at how they can turn their kitchens and sitting rooms into ballet studios.

Come Dance with Me, a dance class for 50s plus: Joanna has been running this class at Mycenae House for more than ten years and it is now on Zoom.

Short courses on Creative Movement in Small Spaces: Encouraging people to be creative in their home space and to explore Laban's principles of movement.

Joanna keeps the cost of classes lower than usual at only 10% of her usual rate and puts 20% of her earnings towards the National Emergencies Trust’s Coronavirus Appeal. Those whose earnings have been affected by COVID-19 can attend classes for free.

MYCENAE HOUSE GETS BACK TO THE NEW NORMAL

Mycenae House has been closed since the 26th March due to the COVID-19 restrictions. Most of the staff have been furloughed and the rest working from home. However, they have begun a skeleton programme to support the most vulnerable members of the community and have been contributing to the local emergency response. Since the 2nd June the house has been open for the Boo Peeps Pre School to run. The cafe (take away only) is open and available daily for visitors to the garden.

The next stage in re-opening is to offer limited access to the house and an ad-hoc programme of activities from Monday 5th July.

The house will run a full programme from July and will distribute its regular brochure. We are looking forward to welcoming everyone back to our centre as we go along. All enquiries 0208 858 1749 or email info@mycenaehouse.co.uk

GREENWICH & BEXLEY HOSPICE OPEN GARDENS GOES VIRTUAL

Fancy taking short live-stream minute peeks at over 40 diverse and beautiful gardens in South East London - whilst helping a valuable asset to this Community ride out the pandemic easier? Available now until 31st July at https://www.community-hospice.org.uk/supporttival/ Normally in June, Hospice supporters and keen gardeners would make their way around Greenwich and Bexley to discover the hidden gardens as part of an Open Gardens Festival organised in aid of the Hospice by trustee Tim Barnes. Unfortunately, like many of the Hospice’s events this year, they are unable to go ahead as planned. Instead, this year’s event has gone virtual and visitors can explore these beautiful gardens from home. In over 40 self-made video tours, garden owners from Bexley, Blackheath, Charlton, Eltham and Greenwich showcase their lovingly-tended gardens, sharing gardening ideas and inspira-

Due to COVID-19, the Hospice is expecting a huge shortfall in funding. Open Gardens has been a major fundraising event for the Hospice raising at least £12,000 each year, as well as providing much-needed enjoyment to both garden owners and visitors. With daily running costs totalling around £23,000, the Hospice is fighting to keep vital services going and provide their special-

Vendors of art for sale – includingasterisk Art and the Blackheath Conservatoire welcome both browsers and buyers to visit their virtual art show. The paintings are hung in the beautiful interior of St Michael’s Church. Normally the group hold twice yearly exhibitions at the church and last year attracted a footfall of 700 visitors, raising over £3,000 for charity. “We take a small admin fee per picture and 30%, commission sales, says our founder, Liz de Mora. So if you have that special present to give, or even a little bit of extra cash, we have over 100 artists to choose from, and as well as being a great way to support local artists, the views of the church and the art we stock will surely make a unique present for any occasion. “

La Liberat Theoology

Member of Parliament for Greenwich and Woolwich, says: “In the midst of the current crisis, Greenwich and Bexley Community Hospice’s care and support are needed more than ever. I hope the community will take the time to appreciate remotely the many year’s service of the gardens and also donate to the Hospice’s Emergency Appeal so that they can continue to provide outstanding specialist end of life care to families in our community”.
How does one combine life in the performing arts with life as a vicar’s wife? Jane Grant finds out...

aronline Moores was born in Britain, and stayed until she went to the US on a gap year in 1978. This eventually became a gap of more than thirty years while she negotiated what was to become a stellar career in opera and stage management.

Her first move as a harpist at the University of Houston proved a false start. “I was a hopeless harpist,” she says.

However, once she had taken the Houston BA in Acting and Directing, there was nothing to stop her. She took on multiple roles in a wide range of projects all over the United States: assistant stage-manager, stage manager, production manager - you name it: she developed a wide range of skills to assist artists to deliver what they had to offer to the public.

For 21 years, until March 2015, she was the Senior Stage Manager at the Lyric Opera of Chicago, one of the premier opera companies in the US. In addition, since 2005 she has been the Production Stage Manager for Beyond the Score – the Chicago Symphony’s highly successful multi-media series created by Gerard McBurney.

Caroline has stage managed Beyond the Score for many other orchestras and festivals, including the Ojai Music Festival and the Aldeburgh Music Festival (both in 2015). She has also worked as a Stage Manager at many other opera houses including the Seattle Opera, Los Angeles Opera, San Francisco Opera and the Royal Opera House.

“I have been very lucky,” she says. “This work has meant I’ve worked with a very impressive list of creative directors, stage directors and conductors including Sir Mark Elder, Pierre Boulez, and Peter Hall.”

Caroline has also worked for Complicité, the international touring theatre company, based in London, alongside its Artistic Director Simon McBurney OBE and, until 2018 Judith Dimant. The company has played in more than forty countries across the world and has won more than fifty awards. It has been described in The Times as “the most influential and consistently interesting theatre company working in Britain.”

On one fateful day in 1998 Caroline was on a railway platform in Illinois when she met the man who was to become her husband – and our local vicar – Tim Yeager (profiled in the Westcombe News in August 2020). At that time, he was working as a Trade Union representative and negotiator for the Automotive Workers Union. A year later they got married in the back garden of their house in Oak Park, Illinois.

Life became a series of very difficult choices. In 1998 Caroline was offered her dream job as a stage manager at Glyndebourne – and turned it down because she had only just met Tim. She continued to work in the US, notably in Chicago, while Tim was ordained (that happened in 2011) and worked as a vicar on the West side of Chicago (with a predominately black population).

Two years later, Caroline was beginning to think of moving back to England, partly because her mother was still alive but frail (in Britain) and her brother was also here. It must have been very difficult, I suggest, apart from anything else, you must have found it hard to pull away from such a satisfying professional life. “Yes, you could say it was difficult,” she says.

At last, in 2014 they crossed the pond: Tim became vicar of St George's, in Glasgow Road, and they moved into the vicarage at 89 Westcombe Park Road. Caroline returned on frequent visits to Chicago in 2014 and 2015 to complete her contract there before finally moving to Westcombe Park. She took on a number of high-powered assignments for Complicité, the Royal Opera House and, in 2016, became a lecturer in opera stage management at the Guildhall School of Music. She finds Guildhall’s emphasis on a very practical approach to learning both satisfying and challenging. She also had a range of freelance jobs as stage manager for various orchestras.

So how on earth has Caroline somehow managed to combine this high-powered profession with the equally tricky role of being the vicar’s wife - taking multi-tasking to new heights. She says: “I cope by taking on the volunteer roles I could manage – reading the lesson, saying prayers, helping at communion, singing in the choir – and not agonising about those things I couldn’t do.”

THANKS TIM!

Of course, you saw him in church, at St George’s, almost always with Caroline in support. And of course you heard him – not just his bagpipes! His sermons were outstanding – in presentation, (no notes), in scholarship (he knew his Bible – and the social background of the contributors’), and he sacked the message to us all if it led up to: “What are you going to do about it?”

But the community, the streets, they too were his milieu. You could always call on him if you were sad or in distress. Because Tim had a very strong social conscience. Whenever there was a public meeting of some kind, calling on people to stand up to be counted, he was there: Anti-Fascist, Pro-NHS, Climate change, Refugees – Tim was almost always there, head and shoulders above most of those around him! We shall miss them both when they leave in August.

You might think he was a sort of Rent-A-Crowd man: no – he cared so strongly about people, our community, our world, that standing up to be counted is in his nature. What are we going to do about it? -Neville Grant

THE VALUE OF TREES

Maggie Gravelle

I think that I shall never see A billboard lovely as a tree.
Perhaps, unless the billboards fall
I'll never see a tree at all.
—Ogden Nash, American poet

Trees are important habitats for many animals and promote biodiversity. They support more than 300 different species, including lepidoptera which are vital for the pollination of plants. Trees are not just visually appealing, they also provide shade, cooling, and habitat. They filter dust, pollen and fine particulates that are emitted by traffic, which can improve air quality. Some trees can even reduce the amount of rainwater that runs off into the drainage system, helping to prevent flooding.

ENJOYING THE GARDEN IN JULY

This is a good time to sit out and enjoy the rewards of efforts in the garden. This is a good month for day lilies, phlox, dahlias, sweet peas, alstroemerias, salvias, larkspur and agapanthus. Dead-heading will encourage continued flowering. My borders would have benefited from much more mulching in the spring and I will strive to make as much compost as I can for future needs. The first of the new potatoes, peas, beans, carrots and beetroot can start to be harvested now. Of the salad crops, I find useful the cut-and-come-again lettuce (variety ‘salad bowl’). It’s not too late to sow beetroot, carrots, French beans, and lettuce.

Here are a few jobs to keep you busy:
• Keep newly-planted trees and shrubs well-watered. Use grey water if possible.
• Prune out the growing tip of annuals (like cosmos and sunflowers) if you prefer a bushy plant.
• Keep container plants and hanging baskets well-watered and give them a liquid feed every 2-4 weeks.
• Divide bearded iris. The knobby rhizomes like the sun so do not plant deeply.
• Cut back all foliage of geraniums after the first flush to encourage a second flowering.
